After students at Glenwood High School rolled up their sleeves to donate, the process was only just beginning. Organizers say those donations will soon help patients right here in central Illinois. WICS