DESCRIPTION

This program will provide risk managers, emergency department nurses and leaders, APPs, physicians and attorneys with current practices/protocols/processes to reduce diagnostic errors of vascular related events in the ED, and with information and resources about point of care ultrasound in the ED.

OBJECTIVES

- Summarize public health burden & financial impact of diagnostic errors and misdiagnosis-related harms in the US.
- List common causes and prioritize targets for diagnostic error reduction and quality improvement initiatives in the ED.
- Discuss solutions at provider, organizational, and system levels that can contribute to diagnostic excellence in the ED.
- Describe key clinical, operational, and medicolegal risks associated with point-of-care ultrasound (POCUS), including issues of credentialing, documentation, and diagnostic use.
- Outline practical strategies for mitigating POCUS-related risk across health systems, including quality assurance workflows, policy development, and staff education.
